Rooms Available Through C. of C.

Reports from Hope Chamber of Commerce offices in the city hall Saturday said that there are still on file there 200 available rooms—so the shortage of accommodations, while admittedly great as to houses and apartments, has not yet become acute as to rooms.

6th Nashville Peach Festival on Wednesday

Barksdale to Put on Air Show; Street Parade at 4 o'Clock

The program for the Sixth Annual Highland-District Peach Festival to be held in Nashville Wednesday, August 6 is now complete. Plans are for the largest and most successful Peach Festival of any held here previously. Many new features have been added this year.

The newest and one of the most spectacular attractions will be a formation of airplanes which will fly over the city for half an hour Wednesday afternoon, arriving about 2 p. m. from Barksdale Field, La. This will be part of their regular maneuvers, but will be arranged so that they can fly over the city at an altitude of 1500 feet.

Practice Blackout
Wednesday night a blackout will be featured, when planes from the same field will appear over Nashville at three minute intervals and drop flares.

Another new attraction will be a brilliant array of fireworks sponsored by the Nashville Fire Department on the Scaraper field beginning at 8 o'clock at night.

Miss Johnny Lee Martindale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Martindale, was chosen "Miss Nashville" from 13 contestants in a contest at the Howard Theatre Tuesday night. Miss Martindale, a most attractive brunette, will represent Nashville at the Peach Festival and be a candidate for Queen Elberta VI.

Numerous surrounding towns have been asked to send representatives, and those that have not already made their selections are urged to do so.

Queen's Contest at 9:30 a. m.
The Queen's Contest will be held at 9:30 o'clock in the morning with 32 beautiful young ladies, representing as many cities and towns entering the contest for choice as "Queen Elberta VI".

Miss Mary Sue Piercey of Ashdown, Queen Elberta V, will reign over all festivities until her successor is crowned, and she will be assisted in her social affairs by the four other former queens, Miss Evelyn Ligon of Dierks, Miss Marie Henry of Nashville, Miss Roydon Edwards of Lockesburg, and Miss Nuoma Silvey of Mena.

Perhaps the most colorful event of the day will be the monster parade at 4 o'clock in the afternoon consisting of floats, decorated cars, bands, mounted police, and soldiers with their own regimental band. The queen, riding on a special float and followed by other visiting princesses and their maids, will climax the big caravan as it moves over the two-mile course of Main Street.

Other Contests
Bicycle and skate contests and a woodchopping contest will be held in the morning. State notables in-

Historic Rulers

Rulers of Europe in days past had much more colorful names than men like Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin, who are running that continent now. Name the country each of the following ruled, and approximate time each was in power.

1. Peter the Great and Frederick the Great.
2. Henry the Eighth and Louis the Fourteenth.
3. Ivan the Terrible and Philip the Fair.
4. William the Conqueror and William of Orange.
5. Edward the Confessor and Theodosius the Great.

Newcomers should make use of the chamber offices in the city hall. The newspaper carries its own classified listings, but these are insufficient in the emergency confronting our city.

The Star suggested the formation of a free public exchange on housing information, and Hope Chamber of Commerce adopted the idea—and it's a good one. People should make use of this free public service.

Incidentally, householders who have listed rental property with the chamber should advise it immediately if the property has since been rented, so it may be removed from the list.

Around the Town

People who have had business out on some of these crowded gravel highways in recent weeks complain bitterly of the stifling dust—but the prize story of the summer is the story of a certain insurance adjuster who calls regularly in Hope.

This man had been up in the Nashville peach district for several days chasing witnesses in connection with a major automobile accident, and he was hollow-eyed, worn out and choked with dust. Finally he headed south from Hope for his home in El Dorado. Just ahead of him was a column of U. S. Army trucks. Stepping on the gas, he waded through the dust of the entire column—and finally emerged triumphantly into the clear air ahead.

And then—and then, he had a flail! And he sat down on the running-board with a handkerchief over his bitter face and waited while the U. S. Army rolled by in triumph—and dust!

Axis Held Together With Haywire

What holds the Axis together? Is it hope of Italy and Japan by the superior force of Germany? Is it desperation born of the thought of "What if we lose?" Is it a vast mutual international inferiority complex?

Maybe it's simpler than any of these. Maybe it's just haywire. Recent publicity efforts of the Axis powers suggest that the strain of the past 10 years has been too much, and that the much-vaunted ingenuity of Axis propaganda has exhausted itself and gone completely haywire.

If there is anything that a super-race and its super-by-courtesy hangings-on must never do, it is to appear ridiculous. Yet if anything could be more ridiculous than some of the recent efforts of Signor Gayda and the pupils of Dr. Goebbels, it would be hard to find it.

The Italian government-controlled newspapers are all sympathetic with the thought that the United States by its conduct is risking war. It is deeply concerned by the thought that American boys may be asked to continue military training for more than a year. For a country which was a year forked into war by a single leader, a country whose every male child is from the age of 5 subjected to rigorous military training all of his life, such comments are so ridiculous as to result only in a long horse-laugh.

The crocodile tears of a Berlin paper, which charges that President Roosevelt is circumventing the rights of congress, are equally ludicrous. It is hilarious for a country which threw its own congress completely out the window eight years ago to take this stand in relation to an incident in which every American child of 7 knows that the President has put the issue squarely up to congress.

Two countries which have openly avowed their intention to put an end to "decadent democracies" shed crocodile tears over the rights of democratic citizens and the functioning of freely elected democratic legislative bodies! It is to laugh.

The object of the propaganda services of totalitarian countries is not to make other people laugh. When the telegraph wires in the lands of the barbed wire go haywire, it's time to look for short circuits.

Molly O'Daniel Gets Married...or Governor of Texas Loses a Daughter

Tense Relations in Far East

Japanese Move Into Thailand Believe Near

By the Associated Press
Japan defied American and British economic pressure Saturday after President Roosevelt's embargo on aviation fuel and here minister of commerce Vice-Admiral Sakonji declared that the "situation is so tense that a single spark might erupt it."

Simultaneously foreign military circles in Shanghai which predicted the Japanese move into French Indo-China said they expected a crisis in Thailand within a month.

Japanese troops were reported massed in Cambodia, near the Thailand frontier. Japanese planes are poised within two hours flying time of Bangkok, the Thailand capital.

Usually reliable sources in Shanghai said Tokyo had tentatively already approached Thailand with the object of welding that country into the Japanese "co-prosperity sphere."

This further supported London sources Friday which said that Japan had demanded military bases in Thailand and also control of the country's rubber, tin and rice production.

In Tokio the Japanese Times and Advertiser, organ of the Japanese foreign office, said flatly that British and U. S. moves to cut off Japan from vital supplies of oil, tin and rubber, would only speed their program to win "efficiency in the Far East."

Beaming his approval of everything, Senator-elect W. Lee O'Daniel stood between his now-married daughter, Molly, and his new son-in-law, Jack Weather, Jr., just after the ceremony at Austin, Texas, (top photo). In center is a part of the better than 3,000 person crowd which gathered around the mansion to watch proceedings and to try and catch pieces of wedding cake tossed by the bride. At bottom left the groom watches closely as Molly takes a healthy bite of a piece of one of the many cakes sent to the wedding from hotels and individuals from all over the state. At bottom right Molly laughingly throws her bouquet (arrow) to her attendants as she stands on the grand staircase of the mansion.

"Major Walker of Farm Security has just talked to E. B. Whitaker, assistant regional director, Little Rock, and also wired him instructing that they act at once in the emergency of the Hope Proving Ground people. He is to call you this afternoon."

"Tents are supposed to be provided through a local concern there (Little Rock) by their grat, ad they are

Assert 60,000 Germans Killed Near Smolensk

Revolt in Conquered Territory Reported; Mexico to Oust Germans

By the Associated Press
Russian armies defending Smolensk, gateway to Moscow, were reported to have slaughtered four German divisions (about 60,000 men) Saturday and Soviet dispatches declared that Nazi advance forces were retreating with heavy losses under Red army counter attacks.

German reports said the Nazi infantry was moving up to advance fighting lines in the Smolensk salient and had freed swift panzer columns for new breaks toward Moscow.

On the southern front Hitler's high command said another destructive battle was underway about 150 miles south of Kiev, Ukraine capital, and that Nazi speed troops had knifed deep into retreating Red army columns.

The German high command said a Soviet division had been trapped east of Smolensk and completely hemmed in.

Bayonet Charge
The Russian communiqué said that bayonet charging Red army troops killed hundreds of Germans of the 137th Nazi infantry division in the Smolensk sector and said that artillery units accounted for other hundreds slain.

Soviet dispatches also reported that the 99th Red army division, organization of picked veterans, had destroyed three other German divisions.

The Russians said that German tank units were half burying their tanks and using them for pill boxes.

While the Russians pictured the 42-day-old conflict as in their favor the Germans said an onslaught against Moscow was imminent.

Berlin quarters said a German vanguard had overtook retreating Russian troops and had established another encirclement. The precise locale was not given, but indicated it to be in the vicinity of Vyazna, 130 miles from Moscow.

Revolt Behind Lines
Behind the line of battle a rising tide of revolt was reported in German conquered countries.

Belgium sources said that Belgium independence day, July 21, was marked by a stormy anti-German demonstration and reported street fighting in many parts of the country.

In Stockholm Swedish newspapers said German police had taken over all power in Norway and that a state of civil siege had been proclaimed throughout Nazi-occupied territory. The German action was said to have followed a clash between Nazi marines and civilians at Alesund, Norway.

Meanwhile on the diplomatic front Mexico demanded the recall of the German minister, and the ousting of the Nazi consul after rejecting a Nazi suggestion that Mexico protest President Roosevelt's action in blacklisting firms of Germany in Latin America.

Worms Display Sunday Manners

PRATT, Kas. —(AP)— If Ed Noble could create a new species of worm embodying the peculiar characteristics of those he has in his backyard tub he probably could build a lucrative business with fishermen. Every Sunday, says Ed, the worms are on top of the dirt waiting for him, just when he wants to go fishing.

On other days of the week they bury themselves and seldom are seen.

A husband who stands silently by while his wife delivers a tongue-lashing to a clerk, usually gets the same thing at home.

During a discussion on farm relief, Congressman Sam Hobbs of Alabama told of a negro mule driver who, who nhe "settled up" at the end of his year's work for a plantation owner, was handed $1.57 for his twelve month's labor—all that was left of his earnings after various "deductions" had been made. He stood there with the money in his hand, looking at it in dumb surprise.

"Well, is there anything about your account that you don't understand?" inquired the plantation owner.

"Not suh; no, suh, Ah understands it, boss," replied the negro "an' Ah ain't worryin' much about it, neither. Ah wuz jes' thinkin'."

Good Crowds on Court Lawn

Evangelist Flays
Modern Dance as Instrument of Sin

A good crowd assembled Friday night for the revival meeting being held on the courthouse lawn. The meeting has now been going on for two weeks and it shall continue one more week.

Before a great throng of young people, the evangelist discussed the subject "Is It Wrong to Dance." He said: "The modern dance was conceived in lust, born of heathen parentage, nurtured and reared in sin. It has been introduced and fostered by society because it gives lustful pleasure, but is destructive to spirit, soul and body, and is a menace to the integrity of our civilization," commented the evangelist.

The subject under discussion Saturday night is, "The Wages of Sin, and How to Be Saved."

Everybody is invited.

Committees Committees Committees

WASHINGTON — The sagebrush, cracklebarrel or waterfront philosopher who first wisecracked, "The best kind of committee to appoint is a committee of three members, two of whom are dead," should be rounded up and brought to Washington to save his country. He should be ordered to speak his piece into every private office and over every private telephone line in government circles. Secretaries who are listening in should take the speech down in shorthand and put neat little typewritten reminders on the corners of their bosses' blotting pads every morning.

Idea men dreaming up slogans, creative artists painting posters that will win the war, government propagandists, government ghost-writers of brass hats speeches, press hand-out hawkers, government "educational film" directors, even the government's radio script writers should be called in on the play, for nothing is more important than winning the war is at stake.

If something drastic like this isn't done soon, Washington is going to be enough conference rooms to go around, or enough chairs for the delegates to sit down in, and of course they can't all be standing and speaking at once.

Up to NRA Tricks

It all started, apparently, in the Office of Production Management when the production and the purchases and the priorities divisions of OPM decided there would have to be Defense Industry Advisory Committees, in order to get manufacturers into line for all-out defense. These committees were carefully planned, and they were set up with Department of Justice blessing, in such a way that they could do what the old NRA code authorities tried to do.

These OPM Defense Industry Advisory Committees were probably all right in their conception. There were to be only about 50 or 60 of them, and they would split up the U. S. industrial world in such a way that every business would be represented and have its interests looked out for.

If the committee setup had stopped there, all might have been well, but on top of this OPM list of committees, Leon Henderson's Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply decided that it, too, must have Defense Industry Advisory Committees. And so, gradually, there is appearing on the Washington scene a second set of committees, the OPACS committees.

Some of the boys are beginning to get smart now, and they're appointing the same men to the different committees without telling the bosses. That's all right with the committee members, but they still have to serve on two committees.

The height of silliness in this conflict came the other day when Henderson announced that passenger car production would have to be cut 50 per cent right off. It was Knudsen who had arranged for the third 20 per cent cut, and why Henderson should have gone over Knudsen's head is one of these great mysteries that worry Washington, but the rest of the country doesn't give a hang about it.

Line Forms Here

If this confusion of committees is not yet clear, but first indications are other defense fountain heads from which all blessings may flow in the form of appointments to committees: The labor division of OPM has Defense Labor Advisory Committees to match the production-purchases-priorities Defense Industry Advisory Committees.

YESTERDAY: Barbara apologized to Dugan for questioning his judgment in the business deal. They go for a ride with Larry. Barbara's steadiest suiter, and Larry, after Dugan leaves them, Larry tells Barbara that he remembers where he has seen Dugan before in a football hero in newspaper pictures. He also remembers that Dugan's percentage of Indian blood is very slight. Barbara is surprised, and before retiring, she considers the possibility of turning her charm more fully on Dugan to bring Larry around.

PLANNING A CAMPAIGN

CHAPTER VI

BARBARA was awakened the following morning by a violent pounding on her door. "Hit the deck," a muffled voice said. "You're taking me sight-seeing. Remember?"

It was Dugan, and she remembered then his self-extended invitation of the night before.

"You're crazy," she called sleepily. "It's only 8 o'clock. Come back in three days."

"I'll be back in three minutes with a pail of water," he threatened.

She got dressed. And it was an appreciative eye which Dugan cast over her. From the tip of her blue and pink slippers to the crown of her royal blue picture hat she was the most radiant thing he had seen in New York. Or anywhere, he decided.

"I'll probably spend my time looking at you, rather than the high spots of New York," he said bluntly as they started out in her car.

"Thanks, but you don't deserve all this, you fraud."

"Fraud?"

"Sure. Larry Grover told me a few things Uncle Hank forgot to mention. So you're an Indian, are you? A big, bad, blood-curdling Indian who was going to make me thankful for all those starfish palefaces who haunt my doorstep."

Dugan studied her profile as they drove. There was a grin on his own face as he replied.

"Look, beautiful. I don't disagree with my boss. It was your Uncle Hank's idea, and he insisted on my co-operation."

"Don't think for a minute," he continued, "that I particularly like the idea of providing your social picture with a change of pace. Especially when I was told beforehand that I probably would find you an intolerably spoiled but uncommonly beautiful wench."

She gasped.

"Unquote, Uncle Hank," he grinned, "but I'm inclined to agree."

"And if you must know," he went on evenly, "I'm not a fraud. There IS Indian blood in my veins, and I'm proud of it. A great-grandfather of mine married the daughter of a Pawnee chief. Since then we've stuck to the Irish."

"Then where do you get this Chief Leaping Water business?"

"Strictly on the legitimate. I spent most of my life with Indians. I was practically raised next door to a reservation . . . lived, played, fought with Indian kids. When I graduated from college they inducted me into the tribe as an honorary chief. Now then, if I'm not too objectionable, start showing me the wonders of the modern cliff dwellers."

TEN hours later they were on their way back, the lights of Manhattan in the distance.

"Some island," he nudged.

"Not bad for $24 and a string of beads," she observed. "That's what the Dutch gave the Indians for it, you know."

"I know. Typical, wasn't it? The palefaces started trimming them then, and they'd still be at it down in Oklahoma and elsewhere if the government hadn't stepped in to protect their oil lands."

They were quiet for a few moments with only the purr of the powerful motor in the air. Then Barbara broke the silence.

"Well, if we've exhausted the Indian subject, how about some golf tomorrow?"

"Have to be at your uncle's office tomorrow morning, but okay about 2 in the afternoon," he said mechanically. And then in a surprised tone, "Oh, you play golf?"

She bristled. "For your information, I've never played with a man I couldn't beat. Also for your information, I shoot in the high 70's and I'll bet you a good ducking in the pool that I beat you."

"I've only played twice this year and I'm a little rusty, but I may be able to make it interesting. It's a date and a bet."

She shot a beautiful 78, but he went home one better with a 77. She knew she was licked when her eye followed his opening drive which cleaved the fairway in two, 275 yards down. But what really got her was the manner in which he merely smiled patronizingly every time she made a good shot. Instead of complimenting her, he gave her a superior glance and bettered the shot with his.

"Tell me," she said somewhat pettily as they walked off the 18th green, "is there no end to your talents? With what am I to be surprised next?"

HE guided her to a table unheeded beneath an umbrella on the clubhouse terrace. "Frankly, I've just about exhausted them," he said with mock seriousness. "There isn't much more I can guarantee. I'm the clean, wholesome, outdoors type, you know. For instance, I've never had a talent with women."

"Too bad," she said cynically. "Nothing you couldn't develop, though, is it?"

"With a little of the proper encouragement, maybe." There was a grin on his face as he said it, but his eye looked straight into hers, and she was the first to lower her gaze.

"Sorry," she said, recovering the slight measure of composure she had lost. "Sorry, but I don't see any forthcoming in the near future."

He made quite a business of examining the glass of lemonade he held in his hand. "I didn't really expect any. In fact, I wasn't seeking any at present. You flatter yourself."

She stiffened. He had led her to a neat little trap, and she had tumbled right in.

So he didn't want encouragement, did he? Well, Mister Dugan Blake, she didn't think acting was one of his talents, and that look he had given her indicated he wasn't quite telling the truth!

And then she wondered how she should describe the tingle which the sudden little observation had given her.

At any rate, it would be fun making him change his mind. But just for the fun of it, of course, she told herself.

A motion picture entitled "Starting Facts" will be shown by Evangelist Fred Hitchcock Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the city hall under the sponsorship of the American Legion. "What is the greatest menace in the United States? Armageddon, when and where will it be fought? Why could Hitler go into Norway unopposed? Why did Holland and Belgium capitulate so early? The United States in Prophecy—What does the Bible say?"

"This is not a war picture—not a news reel—not propaganda—not hate inspired, but the plain unadulterated truth."

"See these pictures and you will thank God that you live in America and that you are an American citizen."

"The public, old and young, is invited to attend and learn some of the things that are taking place in the United States as well as across the seas."

visory Committees. When it comes to naming committees, Sidney Hillman's division is second to none.

Then, E. R. Stettinius, Jr., head of the priorities section in OPM has just announced his contribution to the general confusion. Stettinius doesn't call his committees, but branches, and his first line-up listed eight commodity branches, ranging from No. 1—rubber, synthetic rubber and cork to No. 8—synthetic mercury, industrial diamonds, quartz crystals, platinum metals and iron, uranium, kyanite, abrasives, diamond discs and jewel bearings.

If you haven't surrendered already, it might be mentioned in closing that the boys thought up another dodge last week. Not committees and not branches—panels. Just what the difference is between a committee and a panel is not yet clear, but first indications are that while the committees will be permanent, the panels will be temporary. Panels will just be called in to solve specific situations, temporary crises, and they will then be expected to dissolve.

The gag around Washington now is that OPM will die, one of these days, of its own sheer weight and clumsiness. An equally good bet is that congress will appoint a committee to investigate OPM. Or the Supreme Court might be argued into declaring it unconstitutional.

Parity Income Ultimate Goal Says Johnson

Full Cooperation Needed in Cam- paign for New Cotton Markets

Calling on every member of the cotton industry in Hempstead county and the surrounding area to pledge anew his allegiance to the drive for cotton parity, President Oscar Johnson of the National Cotton Council said that the assurance of parity prices for cotton is only the beginning of the cotton farmer's fight for parity income.

"Only through the attainment of parity consumption can the farmer be assured that his income will be on a par with that of other workers," Mr. Johnson declared. "For that reason we must not slacken for a moment our efforts to increase the consumption of American cotton products; rather, we must intensify and redouble those efforts."

"During the parity period, 1939 to 1944, the consumption of American cotton averaged nearly 13,500,000 bales. We must reach at least this level of consumption to give us parity income. We must go far beyond it if we are to achieve real prosperity for the Cotton Belt."

"The only way we can hope to reach the parity consumption mark is through a continuation of the program of advertising, scientific research efforts to regain foreign markets, and resistance to discriminatory legislation, which the cotton industry has carried on for the past two years. In the end, it will avail us little to have parity prices if cotton consumption is cut down. A parity price means nothing unless we can sell a sufficient number of pounds of our product at that price to insure us a living wage and a decent return for our efforts."

"That the cotton industry's program to secure increased consumption is aimed in the right direction is proved by the gratifying results which have been achieved thus far. A gain of almost 2,500,000 bales in domestic cotton consumption over last year is already in sight."

"Again on the 1941 crop cotton producers, ginners, warehousemen, merchants, crushers and spinners are being called upon to contribute their pro rata share toward a continuation of the domestic consumption campaign on an expanded scale and for a program to regain our foreign markets at the end of the war. As a cotton farmer speaking for the producers, I call upon every member of the six raw cotton interests and every individual dependent upon cotton for a livelihood to join us in our efforts to strengthen the program to attain parity consumption."

Rocky Mound Club Meets

Business Discussed by Demonstration Group

The Rocky Mound Home Demonstration club met June 25 at the home of Mrs. Clifford Messer with Misses Alta and Lydia Bright acting as co-hostesses.

The hostess read the devotion from the thirteenth chapter of Ecclesiastes. She also read a poem "My Hobby." The Lord's prayer was repeated by all.

The minutes were read and approved. There were nine members and two visitors present. Roll call was answered with each member telling the breed and size of flock of poultry she has.

Old and new business was discussed. We discussed furnishing vegetables for the dinner at the Experiment Station, June 28.

An our poultry leader was absent, we had a round table discussion on poultry.

Delicious punch and cookies were served. The meeting adjourned to meet the fourth Wednesday in July in the home of Beth Higgins.

A panhandler was seen standing on the corner holding a hat in each hand. A stranger approaching asked what was the idea of that.

The bum grinned. "Business has been so good that I've opened a branch office."

Serving of Green Vegetables While in Season Is Advised

County Agent, Specialist Assert Persons Need Vitamin A

"Serve plenty of yellow vegetables, green leafy vegetables, and yellow-fleshed fruits while they are in season," advises Miss Mary Claude Fletcher, county home demonstration agent, Hope, Arkansas. "These fruits and vegetables will supply the body with vitamin A that can be stored for later use."

Carrots, sweetpotatoes, and the greens, according to Miss Mary E. Loughhead, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture, are especially valuable for their vitamin A. Other seasonal vegetables that furnish vitamin A are snap beans, okra, green lettuce, yellow squash, green peas, and tomatoes.

Among the fruits, yellow peaches and mush-melon are the richest now in season.

One of the first signs that a person is not getting enough vitamin A, the Extension Specialist in foods and nutrition says, is the gradual development of night blindness—that is, he does not see in dim light as well as normal persons. When the diet is very low in vitamin A, a more severe eye trouble, called xerophthalmia, results.

A deficiency of vitamin A also has an effect on the cells of the skin, which cover every surface of the body—both inside and outside. These cells are the body's first line of defense against infections; and when vitamin A is lacking, there is liable to be serious trouble because these cells do not function properly, Miss Loughhead says.

Household articles and farm implements which farmers intend to offer at the second monthly Farmers Free Auction and Sales Day, which will be held in Hope Monday, August 4, may be left at the nearest rural store, where they will be collected and hauled to the Auction free of charge, the Trade Promotion Committee of Hope Junior Chamber of Commerce announced Wednesday.

Tinkle of Ice in Summertime

Hot Weather Calls for Greater Intake of Liquids

Music to most ears on hot days is the tinkle of ice in a tall glass of cool lemonade or grape juice or tea, and naturally so, since hot weather calls for a greater intake of liquids to compensate for the amount lost through perspiration says Miss Fletcher, county home demonstration agent.

Cold beverages are recommended by nutritionists too, according to Miss Mary E. Loughhead of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture, if not taken too fast or in too large quantities.

On hot, humid "sticky" days, cold beverages are more refreshing than hot ones, but on hot, dry days, hot beverages may have a more cooling effect as they induce more rapid perspiration which cools the body as it evaporates, the Extension specialist in foods and nutrition says.

Fruit juice beverages are particularly recommended since they have, in addition to their cooling effect, some food value in the form of vitamins, especially vitamin C, some energy value, and small amounts of minerals.

Since the intake of food is likely to be less if large quantities of liquids are used, the food value of the beverages used is an important consideration, Miss Loughhead points out. Either canned or fresh fruit juices may be used, and a supply kept on hand will furnish, on short notice, many delightful cold drinks.

For those fortunate enough to have automatic refrigerators, sweetened or unsweetened fruit juices, tomato juice, coffee and tea may be frozen in the trays the same as ice cubes. These can be used to chill the frosted drinks without diluting them.

To please the children, Miss Loughhead suggests making frozen suckers with fruit juices. This can be done by inserting a stout toothpick in the cubes as soon as they become mushy and continuing to freeze the cubes of juice until they are quite hard.

Beverages with a sharp "tang" and not oversweetened are more refreshing than those which are quite sweet or lacking in zest, she says.

Even colors play a part in the important business of keeping cool during summer months, and smart housewives recognize this fact by replacing heavy rich-colored winter draperies with cool summer fabrics says Miss Fletcher, county home demonstration agent.

If the home is to have that desirable suggestion of coolness, all warm colors such as rust, brown, red, orange, and black should be replaced by cooler pastel shades, advises Mrs. Ida A. Fenton of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture.

Textures in draperies as in clothing also need to be changed to cool humans, which poached well. Another experiment saving the nation's poultrymen money is the sex determining technique. It's difficult to tell males from females when the chicks are just hatched. It's important, too, because it's expensive to feed a flock for layers and then discover most of them are roosters.

In certain breeds, it was found that males carried lighter color genes. On hatching, the males were slightly paler in color. It was barely noticeable, but by breeding generations for that color factor, the scientists produced a strain that classifies by sex as soon as the chicks break the shell.

The males are light colored, with darker stripes running down their backs. The pullets are darker and solid in color.

Eggs of Any Color! Diet experiments have produced outstandingly better eggs. Some diets result in eggs ultra-rich in needed vitamins. Other diets markedly increase egg yields. For premium holiday markets, there can be eggs with yolks of most any colors—even purple!

The streamlined turkey, designed for apartment house ovens, is another creation of Uncle Sam's, indefatigable poultry researchers. Cross-breeding reduced turkey size from 17-20 pounds to 8-11 pounds, with no loss in quality.

The list is endless. By selective breeding, the federal men produced eggs with thick al-

Saw Crete Fall

Ungrateful guest at Nazi surprise party for British in Crete was Lincoln MacVegh, U. S. minister to Greece, who said on his return that the tiny island's defenders were totally unprepared for totalitarian invasion.
